YOU'RE INVITED!

Register Now!

You are invited to attend the 2018 LivLyme Summit , a conference designed for medical professionals, researchers, scientists, advocates and patients interested in learning more about Lyme and other tick-borne diseases. This 1.5 day conference has been designed to foster open collaboration between all who attend. By the completion of the conference you will:

- better understand the concept of Lyme and Tick-Borne diseases in respect to diagnosis, treatment and research which will result in improved patient outcomes.
- have gained an essential understanding of provider education in the research and healthcare environment which will increase the rate of proper diagnosis and treatment options offered to patients.

Join your colleagues and the outstanding panel of scientists, doctors and specialists who will discuss the challenges and solutions when dealing with tick-borne disease.

Who Should Attend?

This activity is intended for all professionals engaged in research or the care of patients at risk of contracting tick-borne diseases.

- Medical Professionals: Physicians, Physician Assistants, Nurse Practitioners, Nurses, Pharmacists, Social Workers
- Researchers, Scientists and Advocates
- Lyme and Tick-Borne Disease Patients

Conference Educational Objectives

- Assess the stereotypes surrounding Lyme and other tick-borne diseases.
- Identify those at risk of contracting tick-borne diseases.
- Recognize and assess signs and symptoms of tick-borne diseases
- Initiate appropriate use of diagnostic tests
- Manage patient diagnosis and treatment of tick-borne diseases
